The Heat Seal

The DK2 label press is a heavy duty auto-opening small format heat press. With a heat platen size of 2"x2" and raised lower support table, the DK2 allows the operator to easily isolate just the area that needs to be pressed, letting the remainder of the garment drape around the pedestal. The DK2 features an auto-opening magnetic release feature that does Not require compressed air. The DK2 simply needs a standard 110V household power supply to operate its heating & press/release functions. The DK2 has a very bright backlit digital control, which shows both digital temperature and digital timing at the same time on the display. Programmable presets, adjustable alarms, cycle counters, dual press & pre-press timers, and many other features are loaded into this robust digital controller. The DK2 boasts a solid steel welded frame and indestructible base. Easy to use, low weight and small footprint allow for using the DK2 on any table or work-top surface.
